Ford's subway dream comes crashing down

Fight. Mayor promises to continue his subway crusade even though the city has officially approved another plan

With Rob Ford's Sheppard subway dream officially crushed, the increasingly isolated mayor is vowing to carry the fight for underground transit into the next election — immediately.

Ford's leadership has come under scrutiny, even from his council allies in the run-up to Thursday's 24-19 council vote approving light rail rather than a subway extension for Sheppard Avenue East.

In the wake of the most recent defeat on his transit agenda, Ford immediately told reporters he will urge Premier Dalton McGuinty not to fund "streetcars."

"I'm not going to support the LRTs.... I'm going to do everything in my power to try to stop it," he said.

"I'm willing to take anyone to fight streetcars against subways in the next election, and I can't wait for that," he said.

But TTC chair Karen Stintz, who led the support for LRT, said it's time to get on with spending the $8.4 billion Queen's Park has pledged to Toronto transit expansion.

"We've come to a solution about how to bring transit to the suburbs. Now's the time for us to celebrate and move forward. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Sweltering March sets temperature records

Spring sizzle. Thursday's high of 25.5 degrees just a fraction off the hottest March day on record

When the heat record was set, Toronto was preoccupied with matters in Berlin.

It was March 28, 1945. Headlines proclaimed Hitler's defeat speech was days away and Stalin's tanks were inside Austria. In Toronto, the heat peaked at 25.6 C — the hottest March day on the books at Pearson since records were kept in 1937. The following year, on the same day, the record was matched. On Thursday, 67 years later, Toronto came within a fraction with a daytime high of 25.5.

On that unseasonably warm 1945 day, ballerinas in knee length skirts and some "itinerant Royal Navy lads" embraced "the balmy spring air to gambol out of doors" in High Park, the Toronto Star reported.

In 2012, it's the warmest March week on record, and the city is embroiled in a transit war between subways and streetcars as bare shouldered men and women stroll downtown. The heat is speeding up the onset of summer: All five of the city's golf courses are in good shape and slated to open early this Friday, and allergy season is ahead of schedule.

Normally, allergy season begins in late April and early May. Aerobiology Research Laboratories in Ottawa confirmed pollen season is "high and early" this time around. Pollen from poplar, alder and maple trees are all at moderate or high levels in the city, making life miserable that much earlier for a certain segment of the population.

"One thing a lot of people find relief in, they can close their windows, put on central air, and keep that outside. But many people don't have that luxury because many buildings haven't gotten into air conditioning season," said Monika Gibson, the Ontario coordinator of the Allergy Asthma Information Association.

According to Environment Canada stats, the average temperature this March has been 5.9 degrees, which is much higher than the normal -0.4 degrees, which will likely make 2012 the warmest March on record.

But with a week to go, it's not sewn up. The summer weather will be swapped for spring on Friday, with an expected high of 16 degrees.

There has never been a spring without snow in Toronto in 75 years.

Father of Mariam Makhniashvili not allowed to attend funeral

The father of Mariam Makhniashvili, who went missing in September 2009 and was confirmed dead earlier this month, will not be allowed to attend his daughter's funeral.

The news was confirmed by his wife and Mariam's mother, Lela Tabidze. She does not know why he was denied permission to be at their daughter's funeral or whether the family can appeal the decision.

Vakhtang Makhniashvili was sentenced to six years in prison after pleading guilty to three counts of aggravated assault. He is serving his sentence at the Millhaven Institution in Bath, Ont.

When asked if she wished her husband could be at the funeral, Tabidze emphatically said,

"Of course. He should be there."

Makhniashvili was convicted of stabbing his neighbour, Sean Ure, in May 2010 following a noise complaint. Six months later, he stabbed David and Delores Langer, private investigators with an interest in his daughter's disappearance. A court-ordered psychiatric assessment found Makhniashvili's actions were likely caused by a delusional disorder that developed after Mariam went missing.

Skeletal remains found at the Don Valley Golf Course near Yonge Street and Hwy. 401 were confirmed by Toronto police on March 9 to belong to Mariam. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Twitter conversation taking social media to the streetcar

Social experiment. Reporter engaging travellers along Queen Street route

PHOEBE HO
toronto@metronews.ca

Tweeting every few minutes and living life in Twitterland can be socially alienating, but city hall reporter Jonathan Goldsbie, an avid Twitter user, says it can also bring conversation and engagement to a whole new level.

"I mean obviously we are out and about buried in our phones for a number of reasons," he said. "But Twitter is particularly interesting... as opposed to simply reading an article, which is valuable and important as well, it's nice to sort of dip into this ongoing parallel of conversation that's pretty much always existing."

City hall reporter Jonathan Goldsbie is out to prove that Twitter can help engage residents. CONTRIBUTED

Goldsbie is no stranger in the political arena or Twitter-verse, sending out at least 50 tweets a day on the latest TTC debate and other city hall hot topics. But he'll be using his expertise in a whole new medium.

Asked to come up with a Twitter-based performance, "as a way of telling stories and giving information for an unusual sense of performance," for the upcoming Free Fall '12 festival, Goldsbie decided to charter the 501 Queen streetcar to show how an entire conversation conducted via Twitter can lead to unusual and enlightening discussions.

No talking will be allowed throughout the entire Queen streetcar route from Neville Park all the way to Long Branch. Goldsbie will engage his audience in Twitter discussions about their observations in and outside of the 501 Queen streetcar.

"I want them to enjoy, but also to find it somewhat enlightening about the possibilities of the online medium, but also the possibilities of riding a streetcar and the possibilities of a group adventure," he said. "And to carry it out and discuss it, report on it and observe it in an unusual way to try to remove the middleman of real life conversation"

No talking will be allowed throughout the entire Queen streetcar route from Neville Park all the way to Long Branch.

Taming of the brew for breast cancer

Girl power. The number of female brewers in GTA has doubled in past year

Lemon peels and grains of paradise may not be typical beer ingredients, but this sour mash ain't made by typical brewsters.

Called the Saison de filles, this beer was concocted by all of Toronto's female brewers — all nine of them (12 if students are included).

"Women generally have more adventurous taste buds," beer brewer and marketer Tracy Phillippi said. "Men, as a blanket generalization, get stuck drinking the same beer with their buddies."

The difference shows, Phillippi said, in the "inventive and imaginative" cask and keg libations these women collectively brewed for a breast cancer charity event dubbed Beer For Boobs. For most of the women, who work at local breweries such as Amsterdam and Mill St., it's the first time their own recipes will be on tap at a bar. That's as exciting as their newfound strength in numbers, the women agreed as they named their beers.

With their plaid shirts and work boots, the women brewers dismiss gender stereotypes and say there's no major difference between them and their male-counterparts. The spike in women could simply be due to a new beer program at the Niagara Teaching College or the growing interest in craft beer.

"It's just nice to see them represented," beer specialist Mirella Amato said. "There are a lot of women who would probably love to be brewing who are missing out because it doesn't occur to them as a job." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Strike date. City's indoor workers union softens stance on job security

With Saturday's strike date looming, the union representing Toronto's indoor workers has significantly softened its position on job security, its president told the Toronto Star's editorial board Thursday.

Under the city's February deal with CUPE Local 416, outdoor workers are protected from outsourcing-related layoffs after 15 years of service. Until now, CUPE Local 79, the indoor workers' union, had proposed that no outsourcing be permitted — a notion Deputy Mayor Doug Holyday called outlandish.

President Tim Maguire acknowledged that the proposal was a mere bargaining "chip" meant to counter the city's extreme initial proposal to eliminate job security for all employees. At present, all permanent full-time employees are protected.

The latest offer, submitted Thursday, would protect workers only after 10 years of service. This would cover about 70 per cent of Local 79 members, the same percentage of Local 416 members that are covered by the 15-year threshold, Maguire said. Maguire said the new offer also includes several other major concessions. "This isn't necessarily our final position on all matters," he said, "but we hope this move on the big items generates the movement to get agreements by 12:01 on Saturday."

Holyday said that "no one should expect a significantly different" protection threshold than what is granted to Local 416. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Ethics ruling. Paradis argues he helped an 'old colleague'

Industry Minister Christian Paradis broke his government's conflict-of-interest law when he gave preferential treatment to former MP Rahim Jaffer, Canada's ethics watchdog has ruled.

But Paradis, while saying he's learned his lesson, is standing firm in his job — arguing that he merely opened some doors for an old colleague, for no prospect of financial gain, and that Jaffer didn't get any government contracts.

"The commissioner recognized that there was never an attempt to influence the decisions of public servants. The company in question never secured a contract," Paradis said in a statement.

"In the future, I will take further precautions when approached by Canadians seeking more information about the services and programs provided by their government."

Ethics commissioner Mary Dawson issued a ruling that was measured but firm: "It is natural to want to help someone one knows," Dawson wrote. But "ministers are in a position of power and have a special responsibility to ensure that power is exercised fairly and in a way that is open to all Canadians." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Grits turn eye to realty

Cash. Announcement coming Friday on how province will make more efficient use of current properties, says infrastructure minister

Premier Dalton McGuinty's Liberals are going to squeeze more money out of the government's $14 billion in real-estate holdings, the Toronto Star has learned.

The cash-strapped Liberals, who face a $16-billion budget deficit this year, plan to make more profit from office buildings and other public assets by using them more efficiently and making it easier to sell off unneeded property.

Tuesday's budget will adopt more than half of the 362 money-saving recommendations from Don Drummond's Feb. 15 report on revamping public services. Among those are suggestions from his report that the province end the artificially-low rents ministries pay the treasury.

"The government of Ontario is the largest owner of realty in the province. This portfolio is ... worth an estimated $14 billion, including $2 billion for the land alone. Holdings include office buildings, jails, courts, hospitals and more," wrote Drummond. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Education. The doctor is in at new school clinic

Sharieff James has taken her three-year-old sister to a walk-in clinic to see a doctor, arriving at 9 a.m. but not getting out until 1 p.m. So the Grade 8 student at Brookview Middle School says the new pediatric clinic at the school will make things a lot easier for her and her family.

"I'm very excited," said the 14-year-old. "Normally we have to go out of our way to get to see a doctor."

The clinic, which opened this week at Brookview, near Jane Street and Finch Avenue West, will serve Grades 7 and 8 students and their siblings.

Some 350 families have registered, but the board says about 8,000 students in the area can access it.

Brookview is the third Toronto District School Board school to offer medical services on site and is supported by the board's charitable arm, the Toronto Foundation for Student Success, and community partners.

Support

"Clinics such as Brookview are giving students the support they need to be healthy, happy and successful."

Chris Spence, Toronto District School Board education director

The clinic is open two days a week and will also offer immunization and eventually workshops for families, especially on issues around diabetes and childhood obesity, both prevalent in the neighbourhood, says pediatrician Dr. Malini Dave. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Crime. Cops on hunt for armed-robbery suspects

Toronto police are asking for the public's help in identifying two men who robbed a bank last month, one of them firing a gun.

Wearing hoodies and masks, the men held up the Bank of Montreal at the corner of Lake Shore Boulevard West and Parklawn Road on Feb. 23.

One fired a shot in the air while they ordered customers to the floor and demanded cash from tellers. The man with the gun guarded the door while the other collected the cash.

They fled in a vehicle they'd left behind at a nearby hotel.

"These individuals are urban terrorists. They need to be taken off the streets before another robbery like this occurs," Staff Insp. Mike Earl told a news conference Thursday, where security camera images of the bandits were released. "It's almost like the Wild West."

The robbery marked the first time since October that a shot was fired during a bank robbery. In that case, a robber nicknamed "the two-face bandit" wore a Halloween mask when he held up a bank at Kennedy Road and Steeles Avenue East He is not suspected in this case.

Camera footage of the suspects in an armed-robbery investigation. CONTRIBUTED

One of the suspects is described as a white male who wore a unique Rocawear hoodie with distinct lettering and symbols on the rear. The other wore a full balaclava and could not be identified in terms of ethnicity.

Police are urging anyone with information to contact them or Crime Stoppers. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Renegade soldiers in Mali oust president

Fall of democracy. Drunken soldiers loot presidency after coup, just weeks ahead of national election

Drunk soldiers looted Mali's presidential palace hours after they declared a coup on Thursday, suspending the constitution and dissolving the institutions of one of the few established democracies in this troubled corner of Africa.

The whereabouts of the country's 63-year-old president Amadou Toumani Toure, who was just one month away from stepping down after a decade in office, could not be confirmed. The United States Embassy issued a statement dispelling rumours that he had sought refuge in their compound.

Soldiers smelling of alcohol ripped flat-screen TVs, computer monitors, printers and photocopiers out of the presidential palace, carting them off in plain sight. Others in pickup trucks zoomed across the broad avenues, holding beer bottles in one hand and firing automatic weapons with the other.

The mutineers said they were overthrowing the government because of its mishandling of an ethnic Tuareg insurgency in the country's north that began in January.

Tens of thousands of Malian civilians have been forced to flee. The soldiers sent to fight the separatists have been killed in large numbers, often after being sent to the battlefield with inadequate arms and food supplies, prompting fierce criticism of the government.

The coup began Wednesday, after young troops mutinied at a military camp near the capital. The rioting spread to a garrison thousands of kilometres away in the strategic northern town of Gao.

By evening, troops had surrounded the state television station in Bamako. At dawn on Thursday, some 20 soldiers huddled behind a table, facing the camera. They introduced themselves as the National Committee for the Reestablishment of Democracy and the Restoration of the State, known by its French acronym, CNRDR.

Criticism of the coup was swift. France is suspending all government cooperation with Mali, except for aid. In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland said officials were meeting to discuss whether to cut off the $137 million in annual U.S. assistance.

Allegations

General suspects Tories leaked story about jet use

Canada's top soldier suspected the Conservative government was behind a plot to damage his reputation when reports emerged last fall that he had used a Challenger jet to join his family on a Caribbean cruise.

Gen. Walter Natynczyk, the chief of defence staff, aired his suspicion after learning a journalist got hold of flight logs that showed him using the military jet to attend sports events, the Calgary Stampede and to catch up to a family trip to the island of Saint Maarten in 2010.

He had missed his scheduled departure in order to attend a repatriation ceremony for four soldiers and a journalist killed in Afghanistan.

Natynczyk met with Harper on Sept. 19 and insisted he had followed the rules at all times. But he said he would repay the government if his Challenger flight was determined to be an improper use of the government jet.

Autopsy

Drowning killed Houston, but coke contributed

Whitney Houston died from drowning in a hotel bathtub, but coroner officials said Thursday that heart disease and chronic cocaine use were contributing factors to the singer's death.

The release of the autopsy findings ends weeks of speculation about what killed the Grammy-winning singer on Feb. 11.

Houston was found submerged in the bathtub of her room at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and her death has been ruled as accidental. Several bottles of prescription medications were found in her hotel room, but coroner officials said they weren't in excessive quantities.

Beverly Hills police said in a statement there was no evidence of wrongdoing in connection with Houston's death. Coroner's Chief of Operations Craig Harvey said cocaine and its by-products were found in Houston's system, and it was listed as a contributing factor in her death.

French standoff ends with murder suspect shot dead

Shock. Suspect in the slaying of three paratroopers, three Jewish schoolchildren and a rabbi boasts to police about crimes

Police officers work outside suspect Mohamed Merah's apartment in Toulouse, France, on Thursday. THIBAULT CAMUS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a dramatic end to a 32-hour standoff, a masked French SWAT team slipped into the apartment of an Islamist extremist Thursday, sparking a firefight that ended with the suspect jumping out the window and being shot dead in the head.

Mohamed Merah, 23, was wanted in the deaths of three French paratroopers, three Jewish schoolchildren and a rabbi — all killed since March 11 in what Merah reportedly told police was an attempt to "bring France to its knees."

Police had been trying to capture him alive since a predawn raid Wednesday to arrest him at his apartment in the southwestern city of Toulouse. The killings he was accused of — and boasted about to police — have shocked France, ignited fear in moderate Muslims about stoking discrimination and may even affect the country's upcoming presidential election.

The seven slayings, carried out in three motorcycle shooting attacks, are believed to be the first killings inspired by Islamic radical motives in France since the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks.

French President Nicolas Sarkozy, speaking in Paris, said an investigation was under way to see if Merah, a French citizen of Algerian descent who claimed links to al-Qaida, had any accomplices.

His mother and a brother were detained Wednesday by police after the mother's computer became a critical link in tracking Merah down. The brother Abdelkader had already been linked to Iraqi Islamist networks.

McCartney flies the flag for Olympians

Her ideas. Instead of its traditional form, designer broke flag up and used elements of it in an original way

How many ways can you stretch Britain's red, white and blue Union Jack over finely toned Olympic athletes?

Ask Stella McCartney.

The famed designer unveiled her ideas for Britain's Olympians on Thursday with uniforms that made imaginative use of the familiar flag. The designs, a closely guarded secret for months, were shown at the Tower of London in a gala event that combined fashion's razzle-dazzle with the star quality of top Olympic competitors.

Liquor control board

Wanna serve booze? Ban live rap, hip-hop, Quebec bar told

The new operators of a suburban Montreal bar promise to showcase the big hair of 1980s tribute bands, stacks of jumbo chicken wings and, perhaps, even a mechanical bull.

But to ensure the watering hole could add the critical component of booze to that list they had to promise to do away with one thing: Live hip-hop and rap performances.

Quebec's liquor-control board told the incoming managers of Le Pionnier, or The Pioneer, to outlaw the two music genres if they wanted any hope of acquiring a licence to serve booze.

RYAN REMIORZ/THE CANADIAN PRESS

An anti-racism group and Facebook protest page say the move smacks of discrimination against black people. But the venue's co-owner, who took over the bar last fall, said she had no choice but to agree because the joint needs to serve suds to survive.

"My first reaction was (that) it's very discriminatory," said Diane Marois, who co-owns the bar with her husband, Ron Bracken.

"I don't think it's right in the first place, but... I'd rather be up and running with a limited venue as opposed to being closed."

A spokeswoman for the liquor board said it's "normal" in Quebec for permit applications to include conditions that forbid specific types of musical acts, like hip hop or rap.

In the case of Le Pionnier, Joyce Tremblay said local police asked the regulator to include a clause that called for a ban of live hip-hop and rap performances.

Montreal police were not immediately available to respond to an interview request to discuss the matter.

Students march to protest tuition hike

Montreal. Rally comes after blunt refusal by Premier Jean Charest to back down

A monster crowd, considerably larger than the one at Montreal's famous 1995 pre-referendum rally, formed a kilometres-long sea of opposition to tuition hikes Thursday.

The protest began in the same downtown square that hosted the pro-Canada love fest just days before the sovereignty referendum.

This one filled the square — and then some.

In a spring laden with demonstrations against the Quebec government, this was easily the largest. The parade of protest was so long that its front end would be a full neighbourhood — or even two — away from the tail end. An organizing group boasted that the protest spanned 50 city blocks.

There were no immediate incidents involving the chanting, placard-waving throng. There were, however, reports of some protesters carrying sticks.

And there was a threat from a major protest group: "If the government doesn't announce a retreat on the (tuition) hike today the next step will involve actions that disrupt the economy," the C.L.A.S.S.E. group posted on its Twitter page.

The province is nearly doubling tuition fees over five years, to about $3,800. It will reach its target with a series of $325-a-year increases. However, the tuition fees in the province will still be among the lowest in Canada even after the hikes.

University tuition in Quebec has been mostly frozen for the last 40 years, and previous governments have either avoided touching the subject or retreated.

Students have been staging almost daily protests for the last several weeks and blocked a major commuter bridge on Tuesday. Police have also ramped up tactics and have used chemical sprays against the demonstrators.

The government has toughened its own tone lately.

The protest that shut down Montreal's Champlain Bridge prompted Charest's Liberals to cast that demonstration as an affront against hard-working taxpayers.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Students vs. taxpayers

- The populist message pitting students against taxpayers was repeated Thursday by the government, which is nearing the end of its mandate and is deeply unpopular.
- "We also need to listen to the silent majority — those who can't be in the streets because they're too busy working," Education Minister Line Beauchamp said of the protests.

Tens of thousands of students protest on Thursday "Yell louder so that nobody ignores us," shouted

Stafford trial. McClintic denies being 'engine who drove the events'

Victoria Stafford's convicted killer is flatly denying a suggestion she was the driving force behind the alleged abduction, sexual assault and murder of the Grade 3 student.

Terri-Lynne McClintic was grilled on the witness stand Thursday at the first-degree murder trial of her former boyfriend, Michael Rafferty.

McClintic originally told police that Rafferty delivered the fatal blows to Tori, but court is hearing she changed her story in January — just before Rafferty's pre-trial hearing began.

Rafferty's lawyer, Dirk Derstine, challenged McClintic to "tell us that you did more than just kill her."

"In fact, I'm going to suggest to you that you were the engine who drove the events of that day," Derstine said.

"That will never happen because that's not (the) truth," McClintic replied.

McClintic has testified that she snatched Tori outside her Woodstock, Ont., elementary school in April 2009 at the urging of Rafferty. She has also told court that she killed Tori with a hammer after Rafferty sexually assaulted the child.

McClintic, 21, is already serving a life sentence after pleading guilty to first-degree murder in Tori's death.

Rafferty, 31, has pleaded not guilty to first-degree murder, sexual assault causing bodily harm and kidnapping. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Confession statement

- McClintic has testified that she killed Tori, but that's not the story she told police when she confessed in May 2009.
- The jury has watched a one-hour portion of her statement in which she describes in graphic detail how Rafferty allegedly raped the girl then killed her.

Six years for 'Groomzilla'

Worst wedding ever.
Dispute over bar tab led to arson causing $9 million in damage to heritage building

A drunken, vindictive British groom who held a cigarette lighter to curtains for two or three minutes to set his wedding reception castle on fire last year has been sentenced to six years in prison.

Max Kay, 37, admitted to torching the drawing room of Peckforton Castle Hotel in Cheshire, right over the bridal suite where his new wife slept, after a fight over the bar bill.

"Having been made bankrupt, you embarked upon a wedding that would involve paying a figure of approximately £25,000 ($39,000) for a ceremony you could nowhere near afford," Judge Roger Dutton said in court Wednesday in sentencing Kay.

"In the end you sought, and achieved, revenge against the proprietors of Peckforton Castle."

Kay and his wife have since separated.

'Shacking up' no longer bad omen: Study

Are we better off living together before we get married?

New research by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention — part of a marriage survey of 22,000 men and women — suggests times have changed from the days when living together signalled poor chances for a successful marriage later.

In the late 1960s, only about 10 per cent of U.S. couples moved in together first, and they ended up with higher divorce rates. Today, about 60 per cent of couples live together before they first marry, and their marriages endure for about the same number of years as couples who didn't live together first.

"It's not playing as big a role in predicting divorce as it used to," said Casey Copen, lead author of the study.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rules of engagement

The study found those who were engaged and living together before the wedding were about as likely to have marriages that lasted 15 years as couples who hadn't lived together. A marriage was less likely to survive to the 15-year mark if couples weren't engaged when they lived together.

A nip and a tuck sans the buck in Brazil

Free to be (a better) me. Enhancing one's appearance seen as beneficial to mental health in Brazil

Free Botox and laser hair removal, free chemical peels and anti-cellulite treatments may at first seem shockingly frivolous in a country like Brazil — which, despite phenomenal economic growth in recent years that has lifted millions out of extreme poverty, still battles with diseases like tuberculosis and dengue.

But the philosophy behind the more than 220 clinics across Brazil that treat thousands of maids, receptionists, waitresses and others is simple: Beauty is a right, and the poor deserve to be ravishing, too.

The Brazilian Society of Aesthetic Medicine's Rio clinic has performed free procedures on more than 14,000 patients since its founding in 1997, said Dr. Nelson Rosas, who heads the Rio branch.

Good looks, doctors argue, are more than skin deep, and by treating what patients view as physical flaws doctors are often also healing their psyches.

The notion that beauty treatments can act in much the same way as psychoanalysis, helping free patients from crippling neuroses, was pioneered over the past decades by celebrated Brazilian plastic surgeon Ivo Pitanguy.

Nicknamed the "philosopher of plastic surgery" for his intellectual and psychoanalytical take on the vocation, 85-year-old Pitanguy is largely responsible for Brazil's reputation as a world leader in the field and a top destination for cosmetic surgery tourism.

His skill with the scalpel catapulted him to international fame — the surgeon is arguably Brazil's second most famous person after soccer legend Pele. It's made him the go-to man for A-list celebrities, international statesmen and royalty seeking a quick fix to their esthetic woes. Pitanguy's long and illustrious patient roster is said to include such luminaries as Zsa Zsa Gabor, Francois Mitterrand and Brigitte Bardot, although the discreet doctor has rarely named names. Pitanguy's handicraft on the world's rich and famous allowed him to join their ranks — he commutes to Rio by helicopter from his own private island. But he has remained attentive to the less privileged. More than half a century ago, he founded a surgical wing to help treat the poor. While the wing at the Santa Casa de Misericordia hospital in Rio focuses on reconstructive operations for burn victims and people with serious deformations, it also provides discounted cosmetic procedures. Mild weather brings homebuyers out in droves, report says

Home sales. GTA records 12% jump in sales during normally calm period before the storm of spring buying

Toronto homebuyers need to brace for another spring of bidding wars, warns a new report from ReMax that points to unusually strong activity this early in the year.

Real estate listings remain so tight that half of detached homes in the "coveted" $600,000 to $900,000 price range in high-demand Toronto neighbourhoods are selling over the asking price.

"The weather has been so nice, buyers are out in droves," says Adrienne Lake, a veteran realtor.

Listings for the first two months are up 11 per cent over last year, but demand far outstrips supply, the report notes. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Bidding wars

Low interest rates driving up demand

House prices across the GTA jumped 10 per cent in the first two months of this year over the first two months of 2011 to hit an average of $487,254.

Bidding wars are now "commonplace" in what a report from ReMax calls "blue-chip areas" of Toronto: Leaside, Riverdale, The Beach, Leslieville, Bloor West Village and High Park, as well as in the Cricket Club area of North York, the North Toronto area of Lytton Park and the Cedarvale area near Vaughan Rd. and Bathurst St.

Sales have been especially brisk among properties listed over $1.5 million, with sales up 53 per cent, it says.

Adrienne Lake, a Toronto realtor for the past 26 years, says most of the frenzy is driven by low interest rates.

"Money is so cheap right now we don't know where this is going to stop," she says.

Lululemon's profits beat expectations

Growth. Yoga-inspired retailer opened its first store in 1998 in Vancouver and has expanded to 137 stores in the past decade

Lululemon founder Chip Wilson
CONTRIBUTED

A busy holiday shopping period helped power Lululemon Athletica Inc.'s fourth-quarter profits higher as revenues jumped a whopping 51 per cent.

The yoga-inspired retailer posted Thursday net income of $73.5 million US or 51 cents per share for the three months ended Jan. 29. That was two cents higher than analysts had expected, according to a poll by Thomson Reuters.

A year earlier, the retailer had reported earnings of $54.8 million or 38 cents per share.

Revenues grew to $371.5 million from $245.4 million. Same-store sales, or sales at stores open at least a year, increased 26 per cent.

"We have found the right balance between delivering strong growth and maintaining focus on innovation and execution," said chief executive Christine Day on a conference call with analysts.

Lululemon has been fixing troubles with its inventory supply that had once left it struggling to keep up with demand, and ramping up an online store that carries a wider selection.

The popularity of Lululemon yoga and run apparel is already well-established in Canada and is growing south of the border — a phenomenon that has been reflected in quarterly results that have soared past expectations for more than a year.

1 Body of work: Charlie Sheen's porn-star ex-girlfriend Bree Olson produced a video designed to hasten the capture of fugitive Ugandan rebel leader Joseph Kony. The clip shows a bikini-clad Olson wiggling in the sand, while flashing harsh images of the conflict. Because nothing screams "justice" quite like a healthy dose of cleavage. Where was she when we were trying to free Nelson Mandela?

2 Punk'd in Space: Sir Richard Branson has declared that his Virgin Galactic spaceships "are built and flying in the final stages of our exhaustive test flight program." Tickets to outer space will cost about $200,000 US. Ashton Kutcher has already signed on for the Virgin voyage, and will attempt to stash his assets far from Demi Moore.

3 Take a byte: Thousands of consumers lined up outside of Apple's flagship stores in NYC last week to buy the newest iPad. Investment firm UBS conducted a survey to find out why customers hadn't attempted to order online. A handful of people stated, "What else would we do on a Friday night? We're nerds."

4 Poetic Demeanor: Congrats to Kris Demeanor on becoming Calgary's first poet laureate. He hopes to find creative ways to get Calgarians into the enjoyment of language. Engaging Canadian youth might be a challenge, but perhaps he can create rhymes in SMS. "R U well? Luv ur smell. Lol." Good luck, Kris!

5 Sign of the times: So jaded are sports fans in Toronto that when a player like Phil Kessel actually reaches peak performance, all we can say is "Quick, trade him!" The rationale, of course, is that it's got to be downhill from here. I liken this to my wife serving me leftovers from a delicious home-cooked meal, and saying, "Eat fast. It's just about to rot."

6 Retro in HD: This Sunday marks the long-awaited two-hour premiere of Mad Men's 5th season. The show is popular among those nostalgic for a time when men had body hair and women had real breasts. Also recommended for anyone feeling guilty about their parenting skills, or how much they drink and smoke.

7 Ready to Rumba: Dancing with the Stars premiered this week with an odd crew of has-beens, might-bes and barely-ares. Nevertheless, after watching 15 intermittent minutes, I am prepared to make predictions. A "Pip-less" Gladys Knight will lose early, but thank the lord for the journey. Urkel will do the robot at least once and Martina Navratilova will struggle not to lead. Finalists: Welsh soprano Katherine Jenkins, Latino stud William Levy and Prairie star Melissa Gilbert.

8 Beach-body: Every spring we discover our "winter fat" and torture ourselves with diets. Now, there is a great new book called Unjunk Your Junk Food, for people (like me) who refuse to forgo the sweets for more than a couple of days. Instead of contradicting Marie Antoinette, Andrea Donsky and friends will simply tell you which cake to choose. A free sneak peek is available for download at naturallysavvy.com. Obama takes a shine to solar energy

BOULDER CITY, NEV. Amid soaring fuel prices, Obama finds solace in solar.

U.S. President Barack Obama speaks at Copper Mountain Solar 1 facility, the largest photovoltaic solar plant in the United States. Obama is on a four-state trip to promote renewable fuels and increasing domestic oil and gas production.

Bright facts

- Most untapped renewable resource. More energy hits Earth from the sun in one hour than the whole planet uses all year; 120,000 terrawatts of solar energy hits Earth daily. Over one year, Earth uses 15 terrawatts of energy.
- Poor-efficiency conversion. Solar panels now have efficiency conversion rate of 15 per cent; water turbines up to 90 per cent.

He says:

"I don't want to break one of these. They look expensive."

Obama said jokingly as he walked past a solar panel.

Jennifer Lawrence has found the role she'll likely forever be associated with in The Hunger Games. HANDOUT

Film will satisfy hungry fans

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The Hunger Games.
Jennifer Lawrence brings an emotional richness to the book's main character, Katniss Everdeen

Richard: Mark, from its opening moments, The Hunger Games feels more intimate than your average blockbuster thanks to some inventive hand held camera work. And that's a good thing. As fans of the books know, the focus of the story is the characters. Sure, they are thrown into a wild situation, but admiring Katniss Everdeen's inner strength and courage or Peeta Mellark's big heart is as important to the success of the story as are the action scenes or the dystopian premise. What did you think?

Mark: Yes, but I never quite saw Katniss and Peeta as a couple, perhaps because she seems so much more savvy than him, or perhaps because he has the name of a Lebanese flatbread. But Jennifer Lawrence is strong enough to carry this movie on her own, anyway; she's that good. As far as the rest of the film goes, I loved the first 40 minutes — everything that leads up to the actual games — but found the rest of it a bigger budget version of Survivor on steroids.

RC: Lawrence has found the role that she will, likely, forever be associated with and brings substance to it. She gives Katniss a rich inner life — you can see the machinations of the character churning behind her eyes. Without her level of performance this would be a far less interesting movie. Having said that, I enjoyed the movie's steampunk world; that mix of old and new to create something familiar, yet strange.

MB: I thought the art direction and costuming of the capitol really created a vivid portrayal of a decadent, fey society. Although I have to say that Elizabeth Banks' over the top Marie Antoinette impression was grating and out of whack with even the most satirical elements of the movie. And the satire worked for me — it isn't really that far from current reality shows. Although there were derivative elements in the story, using teenagers as contestants amps up the cruelty factor.

RC: I enjoyed Banks. I thought she brought some much-needed levity to a grim story about kids killing one another. But as much as I enjoyed the movie — and I really did — I couldn't help but wonder what a truly visionary director like Terry Gilliam might have done with this material.

MB: Yes, I did think Gary Ross, director of sweet fare like Pleasantville and writer of Big, was an odd choice. But casting Woody Harrelson as the mentor? Brilliant choice!

Synopsis

- The Hunger Games is set in Panem, a dystopian world ruled by a fascistic leader (Donald Sutherland). Each year the state holds The Hunger Games, a battle to death between 24 players, two from each of the country's districts. The televised games are equal parts Miss Universe, American Idol and Death Race. The story follows two "tributes" from District 12: Katniss Everdeen (Jennifer Lawrence) and Peeta Mellark (Josh Hutcherson), two reluctant warriors whose survival is at stake.

Alabama honours Octavia

Oscar-winning actress Octavia Spencer is being honoured at the Alabama Statehouse, where about 400 people turned out to welcome her. Spencer won this year's best supporting actress Oscar for her performance as a maid in The Help. She rode up to the Statehouse in a pink limousine for the Wednesday ceremony. As she stepped out, she was serenaded by the band from her alma mater, Jefferson Davis High School. A Montgomery native, Spencer told the crowd that she would do whatever she could to see that more movies are made in Alabama. She also cautioned young people in the audience to think twice before heading to Hollywood to become a movie star.

Will Lily Collins (daughter of Phil) live up to being the fairest of them all?

Mirror Mirror. Young actress talks about her new role, and giving the beloved Snow White story some modern twists

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Lily Collins faces quite the tall order with director Tarsem Singh's Mirror, Mirror — namely, putting a non-animated face and an updated spin on perhaps the most classic of fairy tales, Snow White and the Seven Dwarves. But it's a challenge she's been happy to tackle. Even with a competing Snow White film grabbing for headlines and a presidential election looming — Collins (a.k.a. singer Phil's daughter) covered the 2008 race for Nickelodeon — she is working hard to keep her focus where she wants it.

Did you ever think, in playing a fairy tale princess, that you'd get to do an action movie training montage?
No! I mean, it was written in the script that she meets the dwarves and there would be sword fighting, but the script changed so much during filming that this montage, when it was added, I thought, "This is going to be so much fun to shoot." It took a long time to shoot, but when it's all cut together with the music, it's just so fun. And I never thought that I'd be sword-fighting and fencing and learning all these cool stunts. You sign on to do a princess; you don't think she's going to be fighting in it.

It is an interesting update. Fairy tales traditionally aren't great for the their female characters — lots of sitting around and pining, waiting to be rescued.
And that's what we did not want. We didn't want to take the animation and just make it live-action. We wanted to take it and have a reason to redo it. In today's day and age, girls are very empowered to do the same things that guys do. And young girls want to see movies that show people that they admire are not needing the prince as much as they used to — or the fact that a princess can save a prince just as much as a prince can save a princess.

Mirror Mirror opens next Friday. HANDOUT

How was it playing opposite Armie Hammer with these new takes on Snow White and Prince Charming?
It was fun because we both agreed from the get-go it's a very Katherine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy back-and-forth — not just the physicality of the sword-fighting but the physicality of the language because it is so back and forth, and we're both trying to one-up each other in conversations. It was very playful.

There's that other Snow White movie coming out in June. How much were you aware of the competing project?
I think it was known before we even started that there were these two projects. Aesthetically and with the storyline, they're so different. And the advertising has shown that so far. I think more of the struggle was just this whole, like, who's coming out first kind of a thing and making sure there's enough time in between so that everyone's not overloaded with the fairy tale. But that never really trickled down to us on set, I think.

Footnote

Director. Joseph Cedar

Stars. Shlomo Bar-Aba, Lior Ashkenazi, Aliza Rosen

Israel's 2012 Foreign Language Oscar entry is an intriguing, nerve jangling and oppressively narrow story that would be funny if it weren't so pathetic. Israeli father and son academics are torn apart by a national prize; the elder doggedly pursued Talmudic theories for 30 years only to have them made redundant when a colleague scooped him. In his obsessive, paranoid misery, he sees his son as his real rival. Things get a lot worse in grandly academic and hilariously lowbrow ways.

The Raid: Redemption

Director. Gareth Evans

Stars. Iko Uwais, Ananda George, Ray Sahetapy

An ingeniously shot and edited low-budget thriller, The Raid: Redemption brings Indonesian genre cinema back to life. This Jakarta-set tale of a SWAT team raid gone wrong may be the international action film of the year. Director Gareth Evans stages gunplay and hand-to-hand-combat with the exuberance and élan of a director who loves his material, and the cast — actors, stuntmen and martial artists — tear into their physically demanding roles with relish.

ADAM NAYMAN

Documentary

One Life

Directors. Michael Gunton, Martha Holmes

Stars. Daniel Craig

Narrated by Daniel Craig, One Life is an astonishing, albeit conventional, nature doc about survival in the wild. Compiled from a wide-array of footage filmed beautifully by the BBC (who have a fine reputation with nature series), the film is broad in focus but a stunning introduction to everything from water-walking lizards to tool-utilizing capuchins, and even the ominous venus flytrap will keep you planted in your seat.

STEVE GOW

Comedy

Sisters & Brothers

Director. Carl Bessai

Stars. Cory Monteith, Gabrielle Miller

Sisters & Brothers, the third and apparently final installment of director Carl Bessai's family relationships series, tackles the often-complicated interactions between siblings. Through four interweaving stories, Bessai and his cast explore different shades of these complications. Yet in spite of an improvised script and some fine acting, particularly in the story of Corner Gas's Gabrielle Miller, each story feels rote and clichéd. His conclusion — that sibling relationships are never perfect, but we love each other anyway — is sweet, if hardly earth shattering.

Putting The Hunger Games' Panem on the map

Fan-made

Mapping Panem

The world of Panem has captivated The Hunger Games fans. Now, thanks to a dedicated writer-turned-cartographer, readers can visualize the region. The map was created by a previously published fiction writer who goes by the pen name V. Arrow.

METRO WORLD NEWS

Experience pays off

This isn't her first world map

Arrow also completed one detailing the world of Matched by Ally Condie. But the Panem map will always hold a special place. She was especially proud that the A.V. Club wrote about her efforts, even though they did mention she might be a bit crazy. "I consider it a nerd badge of honour to be called a 'fruit loop'" she says. Her obsession doesn't end there. In The Panem Companion, Arrow details the sociological and psychological implications of Panem.

Quoted

"I was interested in how different the story was from the (typical) unification of a country."

V. Arrow on her motivation for building the map of Panem.

Time it took

The whole project took V. Arrow and her friend about four and a half days combined to research and six to seven hours to draw out. But, she's been tinkering with details over the last six months to make it more scientifically accurate.

Investigation

How she placed the districts

Arrow took clues from the book — North America was said to be destroyed by cataclysmic event; District 12 is said to have once been the Appalachians. She used a phi spiral — a logarithmic shape that gets wider by every quarter turn — to place the evil Capitol in the centre. The rest was just guesswork.

Next up...

Clock map not a big enough challenge

V. Arrow considered doing a map of the clock arena from Catching Fire, but thought it wouldn't be a big challenge.

Can Oprah be a team player?

Oprah Winfrey GEORGE BURNS/OWN

TV Network.
OWN shakeup has brought on some big changes

Oprah Winfrey is used to running the show, whether it was her hit daytime TV program or the fledgling cable channel named for her and which she rules as chairman and chief executive.

But this week's Oprah Winfrey Network shakeup, which included a 20 per cent staff layoff, thrusts her into a new dynamic: power-sharing with a top executive from the company that's bankrolled OWN with $300 million-plus.

It's a crucial moment for the media queen, who made OWN her next big move after The Oprah Winfrey Show, and for OWN itself: Can Winfrey work as an effective corporate teammate with partner Discovery Communications to turn the struggling channel around?

There's another bedrock question: Does a big enough audience exist for the earnest, uplifting fare on Winfrey's OWN, so antithetical to the blowsy charms of Jersey Shore, Keeping Up With the Kardashians and much else that's popular on cable TV?

In Canada, the OWN brand is licensed and operated by media company Corus Entertainment Inc. and mirrors much of the U.S. cable channel's programming schedule.

As important as control might be to Winfrey, she's also a savvy businesswoman and has been willing to take advice before — and not just from Dr. Oz, Dr. Phil or her other TV health and wealth protégés. Her syndicated talk show's distributor made sure she stayed on track.

"In the past, when she was becoming too 'New Age,' or becoming too distant, which can come with celebrity and wealth, the folks at King World would do a survey," and pass the results to her, said Bill Carroll, an expert in the syndication market for media consulting firm Katz Media.

As a smart broadcaster, Winfrey heard the public "and adjusted to what they were saying," Carroll said.

Winfrey started off slowly with OWN, busy wrapping her talk show's 25-year run last fall with much hoopla. She began exerting more control after leaving daytime, and as part of the executive turnover that began five months after OWN's January 2011 debut to disappointing ratings.

Christina Norman, who was dismissed as CEO in May 2011, had expressed hope that, within its first year, OWN would reach an average of about 400,000 viewers in prime-time among women ages 25 to 54. That would have been a doubling of the prime-time audience in that demo for Discovery Health, the channel OWN replaced.

It was philosophy, not numbers, that Winfrey focused on at the channel's launch. She was insistent that OWN would represent her talk show's message of self-empowerment writ large across an entire channel.

"What if I could take every hero who inspired me, every lesson that motivated me, every opportunity that was ever given to me and give it to you," Winfrey said in a promotional spot for OWN that showed her beaming against a computer-generated blue sky dotted by soaring balloons and puffy clouds.

For a successful woman, one who thinks and lives big, Winfrey has entered new territory.

Worthy, but is that entertainment? The high-water mark for OWN so far was the 3.5 million viewers for Winfrey's exclusive interview with Bobbi Kristina Brown, Whitney Houston's daughter, which aired earlier this month. The interview, while sensitively done, spun off the tabloid-tragic end to Houston's checkered life.

For viewer Mamie Kwayie of Chicago, OWN's selling point is programs like Oprah's Master Class.

"These shows work because they're infused with Ms. Winfrey's core platform for meaningful messages and impactful storytelling," she said in an email.

Janie Bryant's latest collection for Banana Republic —inspired by Mad Men Season 5. HANDOUT

'It's about an era of lounging poolside'

Janie Bryant. The Mad Men costume designer talks Season 5 and her latest Banana Republic collection

KENYA HUNT
scene@metronews.ca

The new season of Mad Men has been shrouded in CIA-like secrecy. As the premiere date draws closer, we try our best to extract a few clues about what to expect from costume designer Janie Bryant.

Now that we're just days away from the season premiere and the cast photos have been released, what can you reveal about the look of the characters? How has their wardrobe evolved since last season?
Honestly, I'm sworn to secrecy until the premiere on March 25. You'll have to wait and see!

OK, how does the new Mad Men collection for Banana Republic reflect the look of Season 5?
Our second collection was inspired by the characters while at the club because of the fun contrast to the home and office settings. It's about an era of lounging poolside or attending a 4th of July barbecue in a crisp blue polo shirt and stunning the crowd in a lush ivory dress.

When creating the collection, were you obligated to design it in such a way that wouldn't give away too many details about the actual show?
For this collection, [Banana Republic creative director Simon Kneen] and I talked a lot about the characters and scenes that inspired us, the roles they were playing, the emotions they're going through, and worked to translate all that context into beautiful design. We stayed with the traditional Mad Men look that viewers have come to love.

The new collection manages to feel both vintage and very 2012.
It was about taking a vintage look and updating it with a modern twist. We took some of our favourite trending colours and prints, like the bright pinks and large florals in some of the women's pieces, and fit them on a '60s silhouette, like a capri pant or nip-waist dress.

The first four seasons of Mad Men helped spark a global obsession with the mid-century way of dressing, influencing an entire season of ready-to-wear collections. Do you think Season 5 will do the same thing for late '60s dressing?
People identify with the costume design of the characters and there has already been a clear resurgence of 1960s trends on runways this spring. Beautiful, dressed-up tailoring with emphasis on the waist; bright colours for ladies; and tailored, slim-cut apparel for men are all making a comeback. But as far as Season 5 goes I really can't comment!

The former Guns 'N Roses man speaks out. Talks about his new album, his love of Canadians and how his pet snake likes music

scene@metronews.ca

For a Guns 'N Roses survivor — and someone who's been saved by defibrillator paddles three times — Slash looks awfully healthy sitting in his Toronto hotel suite on the eve of Canadian Music Week (CMW).

You must like coming up for this event.
I love coming up here —twice in three years — but the timing for CMW is just something that sorta happens.

This album is billed as Slash featuring Myles Kennedy and the Conspirators. Why?
The first solo record I did was called Slash but when we took the band on the road, I called it Slash featuring Myles Kennedy (Slash's singer).

That became a bigger event than I expected. So when I thought about doing another record with Brent (Fitz, drummer) and Todd (Kearns, bassist, ex of Age of Electric), I needed to give some kind of credit to the guys who were the backline.

Quote

"Ian has a great voice and he did an audition for Velvet Revolver."
Slash
Speaking about Ian Thornley.

You seem to have a thing for hiring Canadians for your band.
Brent is from Ottawa, or Toronto?

He's gonna kill me. And Todd is from Vancouver. He's a great singer, too.

Tell me about Ian Thornley.
Ian has a great voice and he did an audition for Velvet Revolver. The catch was he wanted to play guitar.

You recently appeared on the U.K. edition of Top Gear. How was that?
It was OK although I couldn't get the hang of the left-hand stick in the rain. The Stig couldn't understand why I had issues.

How did the commercials for the Los Angeles Zoo with Betty White come about?
Me and Betty are on the board for the zoo. There's a new reptile exhibit and I'm a big reptile guy. We just thought it would be fun.

You got to play at Muhammed Ali's 70th birthday celebration.
That was a tremendous honour. He's one of my idols.

You've done some recording with Steve Adler (GNR drummer in the Appetite for Destruction era).
I got him to play on my record and I promised that if he'd stay clean, I'd play on his.

Word is that your snake, Sam, really likes the new album, Apocalyptic Love (due May 22).
The first time through he just lay there. The second time he was all over the cage. So I figure he either digs it or wants to move.

The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Induction ceremony: what's going to happen?
I don't know. I'm just going to show up.

Country music album hitting home with Canadians. Gord Bamford's feel-good anthem hitting stride

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Ottawa

Whether you're touring country musician Gord Bamford or an office-tower type, you probably know the feeling: you're working so dang hard you're not even sure if it's Friday yet.

The title track of Canadian country singer Bamford's latest album, Is It Friday Yet? has hit home with all kinds of Canadians, he said Tuesday while preparing for a small private show in Ottawa.

"I'm definitely going to be getting that question the rest of my life," he said.

Quote

"Is it Friday yet? Is the weekend here? Is it time for me to kick things off with an ice-cold beer?"
Gord Bamford, Is It Friday Yet? lyrics

"It doesn't matter if you're in an office tower in Toronto or Ottawa or a tractor in some rural community, everybody can't wait for the weekend."

When he's not on tour, Bamford is waiting for the weekend so he can spend time with his three kids, he said.

Bamford grew up with country music in Lacombe, Alta. He got a start by winning the Nornet Radio Network's Search for the Stars, a much lower-profile competition than the reality TV competitions of today, he said.

"They're definitely creating a lot of stars out of reality television these days," he said. "Some people are getting an opportunity they never would I guess if they were doing it the hard way, coming up through the trenches."

Despite his radio competition win, Bamford says he worked hard playing shows at small bars on his way up, something that shows in the subject matter and success of Is It Friday Yet?

"It's just a feel-good anthem song that's done real good for us so far," he said.

Gord Bamford stands behind the bar at The Crazy Horse in Ottawa. He sings about waiting for an "ice-cold beer" in his song Is It Friday Yet? But Bamford said his drink of choice is vodka. JESSICA SMITH / METRO

Sound Check

How much can I earn as a YouTube musician?

SOUND CHECK
Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

I've been following the progress of Burlington, Ontario's Walk Off the Earth ever since they posted their five people/one guitar performance of Gotye's Somebody That I Used to Know back in January. As I write this, the video has been viewed 74,423,421 times. That's about one-tenth the number of people who have seen Justin Bieber's Baby, but it's still a magnificent achievement, especially for an indie band.

If you've watched any music video on YouTube, you'll have seen the ads that come with each one. YouTube is the world's largest streamer of music and these ads have allowed it to monetize what many once believed was un-monetizable.

I was curious about what this means in financial terms to artists like Walk Off the Earth, so I talked to some people in the industry who know how such things work. Let's try to estimate things, shall we?

YouTube's payment rate is approximately $2.50 CPM, which means for every one thousand views of a video, it pays out $2.50 US. YouTube keeps 50 per cent of all revenues. Fifteen per cent goes to the rights holder of the song (the publisher/copyright holder) while the remaining amount — 35 per cent — goes to the performer.

Now let's do the math. First, divide 74.5 million views by 1,000 to get the CPM number. Multiply that number (74,500) by $2.50 and you have total gross advertising revenues of $186,250. Of that, YouTube keeps half, which is $93,125. The rest is divided between the publisher (15 per cent of $186,250 or about $28,000; Gotye gets a piece of this) and the band (35 per cent of $186,250 or a shade over $65,000). Finally, divide that amount amongst the five members of the band and you have earnings of $13,000 each.

Not bad when you consider that this is the product of 14 hours work in front of a video camera but a little sobering when you consider how difficult it is to get that many people to watch a single video.

But then we have to factor in all the spin-off revenues like the tens of thousands of downloads through iTunes, increased attendance at gigs, more merch sales and licensing opportunities. And how can you put a price on the worldwide publicity? What was that featured spot on Ellen worth? I'd say things are working out very well.

And Bieber? He's made over $628,000 in YouTube bucks from Baby.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

'I'm in love with love.'

Kardashian opens up about the divorce

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Kim Kardashian GETTY IMAGES

Kim Kardashian opened up to Jay Leno about her quickie marriage to Kris Humphries on Wednesday night. It was a lot of what you'd expect: It was nobody's fault, "she still believes in love," blah, blah, blah.

Basically, Kardashian did a great job of making a divorce sound as un-juicy as possible (which is very hard to do).

"I'm a girl who really believes in love, I'm in love with love and I thought this was it for me," she told Leno, never referring to Humphries by name, only as "someone else."

The 31-year-old said that when she "realized [the marriage] wasn't [what] I thought," she "tried to be really respect ful of everyone involved."

"I've heard stories of people who were married for 10 years and they knew it wasn't right, but they wanted to stick it out and had kids," she said.

"I want that forever. I believed in love, I still do. But to be fair to everyone, I knew I had to end it and I'm OK with that decision."

I'm glad she still believes in love. And I rest easy at night knowing she probably also believes in the kind of love that she can make the most money off of.

Rimes may join The X Factor judges

Eddie Cibrian confirms that wife LeAnn Rimes has been in talks about joining the judge's table on The X Factor, according to Extra.

"They've been talking. I have no idea what's going on with that. I think they've been talking to a lot of people," Cibrian says.

"I think she would be unbelievable on a show like that. As a mentor, which is key for that show, The X Factor, I think she has a lot of great input and actually could help these people out. Plus, she can sing."

Seyfried has puppy love

Rumoured couple Amanda Seyfried and Josh Hartnett seem to be enjoying the domestic side of life together.

Last week, the pair were spotted grocery shopping in L.A., and this week they hit the beach for a play-date for their dogs, according to People magazine.

While her feelings for Hartnett are unconfirmed, Seyfried has made it clear how she feels about her pooch.

"I'm obsessed with my dog," she previously told the magazine. "He's become my son and my light source and kind of a saviour to a lot of people, a lot of my friends."

Rihanna

Ashton Kutcher

Rihanna was spotted making a late-night visit to the home of Ashton Kutcher this week, according to TMZ, which posted photos of the singer's black SUV pulling up to the Two and a Half Men star's home.

Rihanna reportedly arrived around midnight — her full security team — and stayed until about 4 a.m.

Adding intrigue to the story is the fact that TMZ removed the item from its site shortly after posting it.

Kelly and Valderrama a hot new item?

Minka Kelly and Wilmer Valderrama have been turning heads with their public displays of affection, according to Us Weekly.

The rumoured couple popped up at Greystone Manor Supperclub in West Hollywood, where "they were kissing and grinding," a source says.

"They were very flirty and dancing close. They even left with each other."

They were also spotted at Disneyland last month and having dinner earlier this month.

So how serious are things getting between Valderrama and Kelly, who split with Yankees star Derek Jeter last year?

"I wouldn't say they're boyfriend and girlfriend," a source says. "But he's started ignoring calls from some of his other girls."

Madge to push for gay rights in Russia

Madonna is set to return to Russia on her tour this summer, and the planned visit is already causing controversy as the pop icon says she plans to defy a new statute in St. Petersburg that outlaws promoting homosexuality.

"I will come to St. Petersburg to speak up for the gay community and to give strength and inspiration to anyone who is or feels oppressed. I'm a freedom fighter," Madonna said in an email, according to Bloomberg.

"I don't run away from adversity. I will speak during my show about this ridiculous atrocity."

Madonna is scheduled to perform in Moscow on August 7 and St. Petersburg on August 9.

Even with the fear of creating a chink in my hipster armour, I have to confess that until recently I'd never seen an episode of Mad Men.

Sure, I've admired Christina Hendricks' talents and had dug out my skinny '80s ties from the back of my closet so I could channel my inner Don Draper, but when it came to watching the soap opera at Sterling Cooper, I just never got around to it.

Now that I'm caught up, I regret not realizing the amazing connection the series has with liquor — especially when it comes to Draper's love for our nation's namesake spirit Canadian Club Whisky (750 ml, $22.99 - $26.98).

First distilled in 1858 by Hiram Walker, C. C.'s aged blend of rye, corn, rye malt and barley malt was a prohibition favourite (a shout out to you Boardwalk Empire fans) that's kept its seductive, mixable caché well past the Mad Men era all the way to today.

Soft, lightly malted and eminently mixable (try using it as the foundation for your next Bloody Caesar), Canadian Club just happens to be the base of an Old Fashioned — Draper's favourite cocktail.

Dine just like TV ad exec Don Draper

Avocado and Crab Canapes. The popular show returns on Sunday, so get in the mood with eats from Don Draper's era

Does Don Draper do finger food? Judging by the first four seasons of TV's popular Mad Men show it doesn't seem likely unless we're talking about a belt of bourbon with a couple of smoking hot Lucky Strikes on the side.

But since that hardly sounds appetizing, we've come up with something a little tastier to greet the return of Mad Men on AMC on March 25.

Try this delicious avocado and crab mini sandwich if you're looking to get in the Mad Men mood. Avocado — both as a food and colour — was a big hit in the 1960s kitchen. This combo brings in a hint of California, the "Tomorrowland" state where Draper goes to overcome his past.

What will happen this season? Who knows? The show creators are known for being stingy with spoilers. But it seems a safe bet this recipe will make for a perfectly swell party.

1. Heat the oven to 200 C (400 F).

2. Brush each slice of baguette on both sides with some of melted butter. Arrange bread on a rimmed baking sheet, then season lightly with salt and pepper.

3. Bake the bread for 6 to 7 minutes or until it is toasted and lightly golden.

4. In a small bowl, whisk together the lemon juice, Dijon mustard, hot sauce and olive oil. Gently stir in chopped pimento, avocado cubes and crab meat.

5. Arrange baguette slices on a serving platter. Top each with some of the avocado and crab salad.

Car Insurance Rates on the Rise Again

Main causes of rate increases and how to avoid them

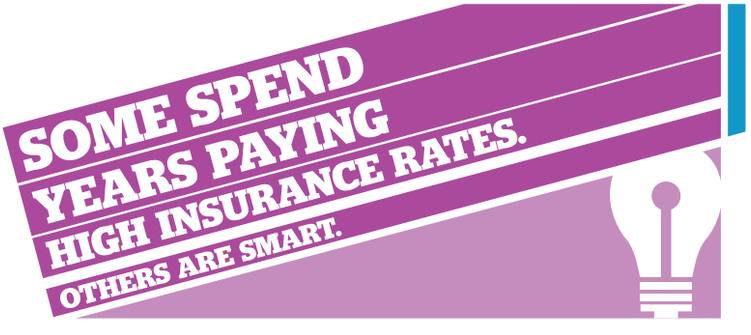
Insurance rates are determined using a variety of factors such as your driving history, where you live and what kind of car you drive. Over time the weighting of the various factors may change, along with the insurance company's experience in the market which results in changes to the rates charged. Although in some cases drivers might see a rate decrease, for the most part it is insurance rate increases that are most noticed and more prevalent. An auto insurance rate increase can happen for a variety of reasons.

Insurance companies review their rating on a regular basis, ensuring that they are up to date with current statistics and trends. This can mean that an insurance rate will increase simply because the results for that particular profile have changed. It could be that the vehicle is more commonly stolen, or the cost to repair it has increased due to rarity of parts. Company-wide rate changes are the hardest to accept for many drivers, but they are also often the reason a driver decides to take the time to obtain insurance quotes and shop for a better rate.

People will likely see an increase in their car insurance rates on the first insurance renewal date following an incident that affects their driving record. There are two ways in which a driver's record might change, causing an insurance rate increase – a traffic violation or an accident in which the driver has been found at fault. An at-fault accident will almost always result in an increase unless the driver has accident forgiveness coverage on the policy. Even then, not all accidents fall under the forgiveness conditions and a rate increase might follow.

There are also a number of factors aside from driving record that can result in a rate increase on an insurance policy, such as where the vehicle is kept, commute distance and who primarily drives the vehicle.

Since each insurance company has their own approved rates and can change them frequently, the best way to make sure you are paying the best rate available for your profile is to shop around. With so many online quoting services available, it makes sense to spend a few minutes every time the policy renewal comes in to check your rate against those offered by other insurance companies.



Stop being a glutton for punishment. And start saving hundreds (even thousands) by shopping around for insurance. All without affecting your coverage.

Domestic media reported Thursday that there was no ambulance available and Venkatesh was taken to the hospital on Wednesday in a three-wheel auto-rickshaw.

Preliminary post-mortem reports suggested cardiac arrest was the cause of death.

NHL waiting on players' union to begin labour talks: Bettman

NHL. 'We've been ready to go for months', says commish on collective bargaining talks

Money

57%

Revenue sharing is expected to play a large role in the talks, with NHL owners wanting to cut the players' share of league revenues from 57 per cent.

NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman said Thursday he's ready to meet with the players union to negotiate a new contract, but it's up to the union to decide when that might happen.

Bettman said the NHL Players' Association hasn't yet indicated that it's ready.

"That's something that we're relying on the union for right now," Bettman said of the timing on talks. "There's a new executive director and he's getting up to speed, meeting with his constituents and when the union's ready, then we'll start."

Donald Fehr, who previously led the union for Major League Baseball players, became executive director of the NHLPA in December 2010.

Union spokesman Jonathan Weatherdon said in an emailed statement that the union was meeting with players to prepare for negotiations.

"At our request, the NHL recently supplied the NHLPA with some initial financial information that we are currently reviewing," Weatherdon said. "While we do not have a set date for formal negotiations to begin, we expect negotiations will begin when we have players available to participate in bargaining sessions."

The Stanley Cup finals are scheduled to end in June.

Bettman declined to say what the league is looking for in renewing the seven-year deal set to expire Sept. 15.

"I don't discuss what we're looking for in collective bargaining publicly," he said. "That's best done across the table with the principals."

Team owners are expected to meet in Las Vegas when the NHL Awards are held.

Bettman met with team presidents at the Encore Las Vegas hotel-casino, the site of the awards last June. Bettman said they discussed marketing initiatives, TV contracts and general business.

Lupul not ready to give up on Leafs roster

Joffrey Lupul
CLAUS ANDERSEN/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Yes, the Toronto Maple Leafs look bad. No, they can't seem to win a game.

But now is not the time to start pointing fingers and laying blame, says injured forward Joffrey Lupul. And no, the core of this team should not be torn up.

"We enjoy playing together," said Lupul. "We were a confident group and we were getting results for a portion of the year.

"We need to get our bearings. We've got a new coach, a new system.... It's not something that's going to happen overnight."

Lupul emerged Thursday from the training room where he was rehabbing his injured shoulder.

He'd been named the Maple Leafs nominee for the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy by the local chapter of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association.

It would be an acknowledgment by the hockey world of how much he persevered to come back from his debilitating back injury and blood infections suffered in the 2009-10 season to be an all-star left-winger.

But, eloquent as always, Lupul ended up addressing so much more.

"Right now is kind of the time that finger-pointing is starting," said Lupul. "It started with Ron (the firing of coach Ron Wilson) and now you hear people on (GM Brian) Burke," said Lupul. "As players, it's upsetting for us because we didn't get the job done, and Brian had the team in place.

"There's going to be people and media and fans are going to try to single out people and blame people ... I take responsibility for it and the rest of the guys do, too."

"That's something that I set out to do, was to improve my pitches per inning and go deeper in games."

Toronto's Brandon Morrow who out-pitched Philadelphia's Cliff Lee in the Blue Jays' 2-0 spring training win over the Phillies on Thursday. Morrow gave up one hit, a single by Carlos Ruiz with one out in the fifth, and a pair of second-inning walks. He threw 59 pitches in five innings. Jays slugger Jose Bautista Jose Bautista doubled twice and scored a run.

"I'm thinking through at-bats and watching the way (hitters are) reacting to balls and calling a little bit more of my own game.... All positives."

TFC must navigate busy stretch of games without its captain

MLS. Torsten Frings expected out four to six weeks with hamstring injury

Facing five games in 14 days, starting with Saturday's home opener against San Jose, Toronto FC is trying to fill the huge void left by injured captain Torsten Frings.

The 35-year-old former German international was helped off the field last Saturday in Toronto's season-opening loss in Seattle, after making a last-ditch tackle in the penalty box.

The cost of that defensive gem was a strained right hamstring that is expected to keep Frings out for four to six weeks.

Manager Aron Winter has been deploying Frings in the middle of the backline of a fluid 3-4-3 formation recently, giving the German licence to move forward as he sees fit.

Frings, who also plays central midfield, has proved to be a dependable stopper with a no-nonsense style.

He is also key at set plays, keeps his younger teammates honest on the field and serves as the team's often vocal negotiator with officials.

"It is a big loss, of course, because it's very difficult to replace a player like Torsten," coach Aron Winter said Thursday. "Not just his quality, but his leadership."

On the plus side, Winter calls the injury "a little strain" and says Frings has never had hamstring issues before.

Just one game into the MLS season, Toronto has already had somewhat of a wild start with success against the Los Angeles Galaxy in the quarter-finals of the CONCACAF Champions League followed by the season-opening defeat in Seattle and loss of Frings.

Toronto's looming schedule crunch includes MLS games against San Jose, Columbus and Montreal as well as the two-legged CONCACAF Champions League semifinal against Mexico's Santos Laguna.

The Earthquakes, coached by former Canada manager Frank Yallop, are 1-1 after a 1-0 win over New England and 1-0 loss to Houston, both in San Jose. San Jose outshot the Dynamo 22-8, giving up the lone goal of the game on a penalty. THE CANADIAN PRESS

- Husband. Happy Birthday Husband! I'm so proud of all you've accomplished this past year! I am so excited for what your future holds and I am so lucky to be spending it by your side. You're my everything.<3 From Your Panda Bear
- Sexy Greg. Is it love? Infatuation? All I know is the warm weather is coming and so are the cut off shorts , wool socks and red work boots ... When you walk by I cannot get enough of your crazy calfs ... And your cinnamon breath . oh how I long to be the honey to your peanut butter sandwich ... Make a noise like a duck ! Scooter
- My Penguin. You are my whole world. From the moment I wake until the moment I fall asleep, you are on my mind and in my thoughts. I never thought it was possible to love this much or feel something this big. I have made my share of mistakes with you but, loving you will never be one of them. I will always be there to protect you and make you feel safe. My only wish is to spend the rest of my life finding new ways to make you happy. From Big Love

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20. As retrograde Mercury slips out of your sign, you won't be quite so sure about your opinions as you usually are — and that's good.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21. Make this an ideas day, a day when you make an effort to think outside the box.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20. There's no point in being anxious. Look at your situation calmly because only when you do that are you going to find the answers.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22. You may not be able to explain why you don't trust someone who seems honest, but you know better than to ignore your instincts.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Start thinking seriously about what you can and can't afford and how you're going to pay what you owe.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. If you need to put a relationship on a firmer footing, the return of Mercury to your opposite sign today will help you.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Don't be slow to junk old routines if it becomes obvious that they are no longer up to the task of getting you from where you are now to where you want to be tomorrow.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. You need to think more seriously about a creative or artistic venture you've just been toying with.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. Today's cosmic influences will give you the opportunity to smooth things out at home.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. Be careful what you say today because you could easily let something slip that would have been better to keep to yourself.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. Are you following a certain course of action because that is what you really want to do or because you think it is expected of you?

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. You won't have just one good idea today, you'll have dozens. Write them down and decide what ones to pursue later. SALLY BROMPTON

^A48-Month Installment Plan ("Plan") offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Minimum transaction amount of $499 is required. No down payment required. Monthly payment set out in the ad is based on a Plan interest rate of 13.99% per year and an advance equal to the advertised price for a specific product configuration. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan will vary, depending on amount advanced and customer's creditworthiness. Representative example of a Plan: $999 advanced at 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92, total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Please contact Dell for more details. NO INTEREST FOR 12 MONTHS ON XPS SYSTEMS ("Promo Interest Offer"), on approved credit (O.A.C.), subject to certain conditions. Offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate legal entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Only available to customers outside Quebec who enter into a 48 month Installment Plan Agreement with DFS ("Plan Agreement") for qualifying advances from Dell from February 3, 2012 until May 3, 2012, 10 pm EST; not available on orders or financing entered into prior to this promotional period. Transaction must include an XPS computer to qualify. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan Agreement will vary, depending on amount advanced and customer's creditworthiness. Representative example of a Plan Agreement: $999 advanced at 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92; total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Pursuant to the Promo Interest Offer, interest charges accruing on an amount advanced under the Plan Agreement will be forgiven for a period of 12 months from the date of the initial advance (the "Period") IF the following conditions are met: (i) during the Period, the borrower makes each minimum monthly payment under the Plan Agreement by their respective due dates; AND (ii) prior to the end of the Period, the borrower repays in full the balance owing under the Plan Agreement. Failure to meet either of these conditions will negate the Promo Interest Offer and all terms and conditions of the Plan Agreement will apply, including interest charges, at the Plan Agreement interest rate, accrued and calculated daily from the date of the initial advance. Call Dell for full details. RICES/ORDERS: Offers available only in Canada for specified time period. E-value™ codes are locator codes and are not coupon or discount codes.
